Carmel Boy Charged With House Breaking

Louis Tourangeau a minor, living with relatives on Tortilla Flat at the northern edge of town, will be taken by Probation Officer Ney Otis to the juvenile court, in Salinas, on a charge of housebreaking as a result of his activity last Saturday evening.

He was discovered in the kitchen of the T. B. Blanchard home, on Santa Fe street in the Eighty Acres, having entered it through a partly open window. Upon being found there, he went out the same window, knocking down a table and breaking several dishes in doing so. Mrs. Blanchard, recovering from the shock of finding him, summoned Police Chief Gus Englund and the boy was soon picked up. Taken back to the house and identified by Mrs. Blanchard, he admitted entering the room and gave as his excuse that he was looking for food for his dog.

It is alleged that Tourangeau has been involved in several other minor difficulties, and these charges are being investigated by juvenile authorities.

CARMEL AUTHOR ESCAPES INJURY IN MOTOR CRASH

Considerable damage was done to the automobile of Stephen Allen Reynolds, Carmel author, in a collision with a car owned by J. W. Perry, of Pebble Beach, at the intersection of San Antonio and Ocean avenue last Sunday morning.

Reynolds says that as he was preparing to turn south from Ocean into San Antonio, Perry failed to stop at the arterial sign as he approached from the north on San Antonio and ran into the right front side of his car, not only putting the car out of commission, but bruising Reynolds' leg and exciting the two airedale dogs riding with him.

Medical examination given to Reynolds by Dr. J. B. McCarthy failed to reveal anything dangerous in his condition, however, and he was taken to his Carmel Woods home to rest. Reynolds now declares that he will take the matter into small claims court and institute suit against Perry to the amount of damage inflicted on his machine.

Carmelites Win Prizes At Del Monte Dog Show

Many Carmelites won prizes at the Del Monte Kennel Club's eleventh annual dog show staged on the hotel grounds last Sunday afternoon and despite inclement weather the event was the most successful in the history of peninsula competition.

Among those who had animals entered were Adolph Hanke, with his cocker spaniel The Black Pearl of Orkney, Miss Doris Crossman with her Daschunde Crossman's Tevoc of Greenburg, Mrs. Norwood B. Smith with her Irish wolfhound Ch. Cragwood Muldoon, and Edward Kuster with his Irish wolfhound Aengus Og.

Helen E. Towne had her Old English sheepdog Pinto's Handsome Bob, and Mrs. Frances Dorcy had a cairn terrier Cailleach of Cairndania, with Mrs. Kit Whitman showing her fox terrier Lucy Locket. Prominent in Kerry blue terriers were those of the Valleyfield kennels, and had Ch. Shelia Sinend, Skatha, Valleyfield's Shaun and The Saorstat. Puppy dogs were represented by Mrs. Maurice Barclay's Glendower McBean of Atholl.

Dr. and Mrs. E. F. Kehr had their sealyham terriers Friar Tuck, Shelterfield Steppingstone, Baycrest Bubbie and Baycrest Bashful. Among Welsh terriers were Mrs. W. H. Hargrave's Del Monte Rowdy Boy and Mrs. D. M. Seely-Smith's Del Monte Dafyd-Ap-Ivan, and Miss Marion Kingsland's Ch. Joe Cinderkin of Halycon, Ch. Del Monte Red Top, Del Monte Gelnellen and Halycon Red Robin, these exhibited but not in competition. Mrs. John O. Dresser entered Del Monte Geoffrey.

Pekingese entries found those of Mrs. Sidney Fish, with Too Too of Carmel, bred by Elizabeth Hollis, and Miss Hollis entering her own Big Bear of Carmel and Sister of Carmel. In the Dalmatians Mrs. C. Halstead Yates entered Halnor Domino.

At the close of the show Mrs. Sidney Fish presented the S. F. B. Morse prize to the winner of the Best Of All judging, and it was taken by C. H. Stratton's chow named Champion De Lamar Hong Kong King. The children's Handling Class, an event that is one of the most popular with spectators, was taken by Miss Precilla Watson. Award was then made of Mrs. James Hopper's wirehair terrier, which was given as a gate prize.

Many compliments were given to Miss Marion Kingsland for the admirable manner in which she handled the many details connected with the 375 entries from all parts of the west, and to her assistants including Mrs. Halstead Yates, Mr. Adolph Hanke and Mrs. Kit Whitman.

Colonel Taylor of the Carmel Woods and family went north last Sunday for a week of fishing.

DEVENDORF RECOVERING FROM RECENT ILLNESS

Stricken with a heart attack while here on a business trip, Frank Devendorf, the founder of Carmel, has been confined to his Lincoln Street home for the past week and probably will be forced to remain there for the next month. His friends are much relieved to learn that the early report of his ailment has since been modified, and that his progress back toward health is now satisfactory.

Thirty years ago Devendorf and Frank Powers, both of San Francisco, decided that Carmel was the ideal spot for a summer colony and came here to start a real estate subdivision. Since then the history of the town has been closely associated with Devendorf's name, although of late years he has spent most of his time at his Oakland residence.

RUICK IS VICTIM OF HEART ATACK

John W. Ruick, employed at the Old Cabin Tea Room, suffered a heart attack Tuesday evening and was found dead on the floor of his Camino Real street home. His failure to report for work in the afternoon led to an investigation that resulted in Chief of Police August Englund finding the body.

BOXING BOUTS FEATURE OF MANZANITA SMOKER

The Manzanita Club Smoker of last Friday evening with its dinner and card of boxing proved to be one of the most successful events ever arranged by this group, both in point of view of its attendance and entertainment.

Referee of the fights, and outstanding sports authority of Carmel, was Don Staniford, with judges Frank Sheridan and Talbert Josselyn to assist in the verdicts. Bob Dalton, of the Carmel Athletic Club, was given a draw with Bud Garcia, while Frank Dalton, also of the local club, lost a decision to "Bear Cat" Tevis, while Bud Garcia, of Carmel, defeated Joe Sanchez. Al Tyler cleaned up in a last minute rally in his match with Herman Sanchez.

BOB DALTON WINS S. F. BOXING BOUTS

Bob Dalton, Carmel featherweight boxer, brought to Carmel the 126 pound championship of northern California by his victory Monday night over Harold Tousint, of the San Jose Bears, in the California State Boxing Championship bouts now under way in San Francisco. He will now be one of eight members of the Northern California team on June 11th, and if he scores another win he will be state amateur champion of his class.

After being introduced from the ring a "The Carmel Express," he went right to work and scored a knockout in the second round of a scheduled three round go, and earned a belt buckle emblematic of his victory. His older brother, Frank, entered in the 147 pound novice class, won his match by default and will be entered in the bouts of June 4th, staged in the Civic Auditorium of the northern city.

DR. KEHR NOW HEAD OF FIRST AID CLASS

Owing to the departure of Dr. Willard I. Covault to take up practice in Los Angeles, the Red Cross first aid classes will now be conducted by Dr .Edwin Kehr on the usual Wednesday sessions for juveniles and adults. Much interest has been shown in this work, and a total of over thirty have enrolled for the course.

PROOF SHEETS GO FOR LOW POSTAL CHARGES

Carmel writers are reminded by the postoffice that reasonable rates apply to proof sheets, corrected proof sheets and manuscript copy that accompanies the same. Under 8 ounces takes the 3d class rate, while over 8 ounces becomes 4th class and goes on a parcel post rate.

The idea is that this class of material is not new matter, but is a correction of what exists, as shown in the Postal Guide, page 11, No. 28, and will be explained by postmaster Irene Cator on request. It is probably the only exception to typewritten matter going through the mails, which ordinarily requires a high classification.

NOTED WRITER PASSES IN ST. FRANCIS HOSPITAL

The sudden death of Miss Margaret Watson at the St. Francis hospital in San Francisco comes as a profound shock to her many friends in Carmel. Miss Watson, was a frequent visitor to Carmel and often the house guest of Miss Laura Dierssen.

Miss Watson, a writer in her own right was a charming and gifted person and her passing is most regretable.

Two other short plays will be presented, Sudermann's famous "Fritzchen" and Mauriec Baring's hilarious "Catherine Parr; or, Alexander's Horse."

Miss Rea Willey, president of the club, read several communications and announced that the club had been invited to take part in the Monterey Birthday celebration on June 2nd by placing a wreath on the Serra monument erected by Mrs. Stanford at the Presidio.

JOHN DILLINGER IS WANTED BY MARSHAL

John Dillinger, aged 31, occupation given as a mechanic, has his picture on the wall of Marshal Gus Englund's peace enforcement office in the city hall. It seems that a Mr. J. Edgar Hoover, of the U. S. Department of Justice, sent Gus the picture and requested that Gus corral Mr. Dillinger if in this vicinity and keep him until somebody can do something about it. Persons wishing details concerning the outlaw can get them for the asking, but Gus Englund advises the public that if Mr. Dillinger is coming to Carmel for a vacation he be treated with more than the usual hospitality accorded our summer visitors.

CARMEL GIRL'S BALL TEAM IS ORGANIZED

Charmak & Chandler's Monterey shop has been established for many years, and its growing popularity with people of Carmel, Pebble Beach, Carmel Highlands and Carmel Valley inspired the opening of a Carmel store as an added convenience to these customers. It is further hoped that many people unable to make the trek over the hill, will find the new shop a convenient place to shop, according to Mr. Chandler.

Such known merchandise as Society Brand Clothes, Nettleton Shoes, Grayco Shirts and Ties, and Wilson Brothers Haberdashery will be featured at Charmak & Chandler.

A KNOCKING AT YOUR DOOR

Let them in when they knock at your door—children, Music Society Board Members, Lieutenants,—whoever it is standing there with a Music Society circular in his hand, and the conviction that the Orchestra and the Penha Piano Quartet must be made a permanent feature of Carmel's summers, shining in his face.

It may be Max Hagemeyer, who is Captain of the Children's Committee, or Gwendolyn Stearns, Mary Marble, who is chairman of the Summer Membership, Sidney Robertson, Ann Greene, Laidlaw Williams, Mrs. Katharine Howe, Winifred Howe, Mildred Wright, Mrs. Henry Dickinson, or any one of thirty or forty others, who are giving up hours of their time to get support for the music which they believe is as important to Carmel as the "three R's"—or more important!

Ask any music teacher or any parent what the Orchestra has done for the children's interest in music; ask Madeline Curry at the Sunset School what it has done for the school orchestra; or think for yourself how little music there was in Carmel before the Carmel Music Society was founded, and how much there has been since.

The Summer Series is a Resident Artist Series and is as follows:

June 26—Winifred Christie, pianist, playing Moor Double Keyboard Piano.

July 10—Penha Piano Quartet.

July 24—Penha Piano Quartet.

Aug. 7—Monterey Peninsula Orchestra, with soloists. Michel Penha, conductor.

Aug. 21—Penha Piano Quartet.

Remember, if you have any type of subscription to the Summer Series, you may come to the open rehearsals of the Quartet and the Orchestra for the ten cent admission. Otherwise, you pay twenty-five cents.

The preliminaries get underway tomorrow, with the semi-finals on Saturday and the finals on Sunday.

DR. MacWILLIE FINDS TRAVEL DIFFICULTIES

Dr. John MacWillie, who left Carmel several months ago for China, found upon his return to San Francisco on the Dollar Liner President Hayes, that the ship could not dock due to the longshoreman strikes. The Dollar Lines were unwilling to risk a landing and so sent the ship to Los Angeles. It was found that no unloading could be done in Los Angeles either, so the passengers were sent to shore in small boats and the President Hayes set sail for China to return her cargo to the merchants there. Mrs. John MacWillie left Monday for Los Angeles to meet Dr. MacWillie.

"DANGEROUS CORNER" IS WELL WORTH SEEING

by Hal Garrott

The Carmel Community Players' production of Priestly's "Dangerous Corner," directed by Gordon Davis in the Denny-Watrous Gallery this week end is one of the most finished this group has given. The play, ideally suited to the intimacy of a small playhouse, held a good sized audience entranced for three acts of what might be called, highly dramatic conversation.

The piece opens with seven intimate friends chatting in a drawing room. A chance remark about a cigarette box, like a match dropped into a barrel of gun powder, starts things goings with a boom. When six of these characters are through telling what they know about a shooting, a theft of money, their own and each other's love affairs, the audience has traveled a long way into human psychology. When you learn it is invariably someone else's husband or wife that attracts, "Dangerous Corner" becomes very dangerous indeed.

Paula Dougherty as Olween Peel, a secretary, sustains an exacting role with genuine fervor unmarred by over-emphasis. Byington Ford's fine sincerity won audience affection to such extent, we forgave the character for stealing money from a partner. Mary Henderson was a charming Betty, even if her confession tore to shreds any possibility of her really being "a sweet young thing"—all of which proves once more that personality is more convincing than truth. As Freda, Ruth Thompson was consistently satisfying.

Lloyd Weer possesses a voice that clothes whatever he says in emotion. Usually cast as the young lover, this actor proved he can spark in a climax. Perhaps Euel Labhard, as Gordon, should have been mentioned first. Owing to the unfortunate illness of Bud Mills, Mr. Labhard took over this important role on three days' notice. His powerful voice and flaming vitality dominated several scenes in the first act where something was needed to save the audience from boredom. Olga Fish, appearing briefly in acts I and III, the only character not psychoanalyzed by the playwright, read her lines with a charm that made us wish she had been anatomized along with the others.

"Dangerous Corner" plays tonight and tommorrow night. Don't miss it.

PHILIP REMER IN PLAY ON BROADWAY

From Carmel's amateur dramatic stage to Broadway in two months is a record hung up by Philip Remer, nephew of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Burt of Carmel, according to letters received here.

Phil Remer came to Carmel a year ago to visit his relatives and during the course of his stay tried his hand at amateur dramatics.

Armed with letters of introduction and a firm resolve to "make good," Remer went to New York with the idea of the stage as a career.

Philip Remer's name appeared in the cast in the Community Player Productions of "The Imaginary Invalide," The Devil Who Saw God, and several others. Now after only two months it appears in a dramatic skit in a review at the Lyric Theatre on the Great White Way.

DOUGLAS PUPILS TO GIVE REMSEN PLAY

Rem Remsen's play "Inchling" will be presented the evening of June 6th at the Douglas School by pupils under direction of Byington Ford. Staged in the open air at the Boy's Stockade, it will represent the most ambitious effort the school has attempted, and is of special interest to Carmelites through the fact that Remsen first produced the work at the Forest Theatre, collaborating with Tom Cator and Irene Alexander.

In the cast will be Mary Jane Ford, Sally Warner, Freddie Skeetop, Mary Williams, Carol Morris, Gail Aanderson, Jean Wilder, Stuyvesant Fish, Philip Hatton, Jean Sterling, Tom Wilder, Peggy O-Melveny, Mary Morse, Patsy Ford, Betty Hunter, Katharine Elkins, Ruth Goode, Chickie Wilkins, Polly Hunter, Audrey Ford, Glenn McCusky, Wilbur McCusky, Betty Hunter, Billie Boeing and Jane Hitscock.

Music will be by Molly Murphy, assisted by Frederick Search and Arthur Gunderson. Dances are arranged by Ruth Austin, settings are by Richard and Rhoda Johnson, and lighting by David Alberto.

WORLD TRAVELER TELLS OF COMMUNISTIC AIMS

R. B. Price, manufacturer and world traveler, has been a La Playa Hotel guest recently, and was able to give an interviewer a broad outlook on international conditions, particularly those in Russia and Asia.

"Russia teaches war in its schools," he said regarding the military status of the Soviet, "and when you can pin down an intellectual educator he will admit that armed forces and armed action are the most humane means, because the most expeditious, of gaining the Rusian ambition of capitalistic extermination."

The United States, in Russia's estimation, is so contaminated with the cancer of capitalism that fundamental and drastic changes must be made to put it on a sound basis —a communistic basis of course.

"And Russia will take any method whatever to rid the world of something so antagonistic to its outlook as captalism," went on Mr. Price. "What the American public needs to realize is the seriousness of the Russian aims, and the excellent organization existing there, supplemented all over the world by the Third International. One of the most significant things is the fact that Russia is a vast trading company with which no private concern could possibly compete.

"Russia can spread the losses of this company over the millions of her population, when losses occur, and can export whatever it pleases whether or not the goods are needed right at home."

Given a people dominated by men who are convinced that their creed is the only one, and with an organization both civil and military that holds the populace in a straightjacket, and with a foreign policy of putting the best foot forward regardless of what really happens in the background, and you have potential conflict.

Whether or not Japan and Russia will go to war was impossible to say, but it was stated that Japan is grasping a now-or-never opportunity in her Chinese policy and is of the opinion that she is the power destined to ride the Chinese horse to immense territorial conquests. The Asia-for-Asiatica agitation is responsible for the dwindling influence of the white man over there, and is gaining momentum rapidly.

As to our own conditions, Mr. Price believes that our banking system has been largely responsible for the economic distress (more extreme here than in other important countries) in its demand deposits combined with long-term loans, and other ingrained faults which are tenaciously clung to.

"The Russians may be right when they say that their loyalty to communism will triumph over the selfishness of capitalism. Evidenced, partly, by the way that their leaders in early days of the revolution were able to weld a small and very carefully selected group into a conquering force against an army that melted away when the land was offered to the peasant."

Mr. Price was an eye witness of the world war fighting in 1916, while manufacturing in England. Returning to this country, he investigated newspaper propaganga from the Allied viewpoint, and part of this work was the studying of 4000 newspapers and the realiztion that little real information about the world upheaval ever got to the reading public. The Japanese, he said, in the 1905 was against Russia, were the first to use propaganga in America to gain sympathy. Germany learned this lesson, but the Allies were slow to realize the immense value of such publicity.

America must pay the penalty in the future, in his mind, for decades of wasting of national resources and gaining an apparent prosperity at the expense of posterity, thinking all the while that its leaders were progressing through its leaders were progressthrough their cleverness and sheer ability.

"Speaking of cleverness, Asia and the Orient generally are far better manufactures, organizers and high-pressure salesmen of the so-called big-business type than we realize. Just as the white man has a comtempt for skins of other color than his, just so will other races nourish their resentment and in time make the white man pay dearly for it. The British are feeling this acutely already, as they have always been striving to maintain white-man dominance over natives in far parts of the globe."

Present day remedies put in motion by the Democrats do not convince Mr. Price of their value in bringing about recovery of permanent nature. He believes that Roosevelt is encouraging Class struggle that may get out of bounds, and overlooking thrift, integrity and hard work upon which America's real progress was built. He feels that all our leaders could well cultivate humility and open minds in this era of enforced changes. Even the Wall Street Journal stressed this, he added.

Far from the extremist in appearance and manner, Mr. Price impreses one as a scholar of economics, working from first hand knowledge of widespread condi tions. He speaks with the clear thoughts of a writer on such subjects, and believes that constant repetition in newspapers of facts concealing dangers, and especially of revealing the basic outlook of Russians and Asiatics and of the devious, suave way in which they will gain their ends, will make a start toward defense against them of retaining the things in America that were fought for by our forebears.

When the facts and figures of the Harrison Memorial Library are presented to the city council next week the public will have an opportunity to express themselves concerning its operation and costs.

The question of Carmel's high library tax has been opened by Councilman Burge whose stated intentions are to reduce taxes where ever possible. However Burge in a published statement said that there was no movement afoot to curtail or close our library but rather to discover whether we are getting the best possible service for the money paid out or if for the same sum we can increase the efficiency of the Library. This movement in itself if coupled with the desire of the people to improve our public library rather than to save tax money should be welcomed by the Library board and the taxpayer alike. There should be a harmonious discussion with the best interests of the library uppermost in mind.

We are a reading people as evidenced by the large percentage of card holders both adults and children. The library is an essential part of our village and to injure in any way its efficiency would not be countenanced for a minute. Great care must be used and a thorough understanding of the situation be arrived at before any action be taken. Much thought should be given the library costs before any decision to cut taxes is made.

A NEW KIND OF COMMERCE CHAMBER
by Hal Garrott

If a prize were offered to the organization doing the most to foster the development of a fine art in a small community, it would not surprise me to see this prize awarded to The Carmel Music Society. Nor would it surprise music circles in centers big and little over the United States. The ones who would receive the surprise of their lives live here in Carmel, blissfully unaware of the magnificent achievement occuring right under their noses.

In spite of numerous attempts San Francisco has failed to support a first class resident quartet. Carmel with less than five one-thouandths of San Francisco's population, is supporting one of such excellence, it played six times at Mills College and three times in San Francisco at rates actually higher than some received by The London String Quartet. Enthusiastic reviews in the metropolitan press and numerous return engagements proved the success of Carmel's resident quartet.

Merchants who would ordinarily pay twenty-five to one hundred dollars annually for Chamber of Commerce service, would receive greater value by turning the money over to The Carmel Music Society.

In scarcely three years' time this society has influenced enough big-time artists to live in Carmel to supply a season of concerts given exclusively by resident performers, concerts of such high quality they would pass muster in New York.

Besides an outing in one of Nature's entrancing beauty spots, visitors to Carmel this summer will be offered musical entertainment and musical instruction unequalled except in a great metropolis. There will be three quartet concerts, a recital by an internationally known pianist who has toured most of the world and made a sensation at The Century of Progress in Chicago last year, and a program by the Monterey Peninsula Orchestra directed by Michel Penha who has had experience leading a great symphony orchestra.

Besides these five major concerts, some twenty-five rehearsals of the quartet and orchestra will be open to holders of five dollar season tickets, one of the biggest five-dollars' worth ever offered.

Students will be admitted to play in the orchestra and receive instruction in ensemble playing for a small registration fee (those already in the orchestra excepted), and private instruction may be had in almost every branch of the art from literally scores of teachers.

The fame of Carmel as a music center has been carried to the corners of the earth by concert stars who have sojourned here. Carmel is constantly being visited by celebrities too numerous for individual newspaper comment. Some who are sought after by the public come in-cog.

It is difficult to estimate what the movement fostered by The Carmel Music Society is doing for our city. Its benefits range from gains to business men for merchandise sold, to a musical education for students attracted from all parts of the country, and a growing appreciation on the part of the public for great music greatly performed.

NIGHT SOUND

The night brings sounds
Which raucous day can never give.
At night, the listening ear
Can hear the stirring of a leaf;
The brittle snapping of a twig;
An insect's rustle in the grass;
The gentle breathing of the wind.
A far off waterfall
Murmurs its crystal harmonies;
A distant owl shakes forth
His eerie wail.
At last the moon-bright solitude
Is shattered by a flood of song—
A mocking bird is serenading
A hushed and sleeping world.

—Winnie Lynch Rockett

AT THE AMBER END

Along the edge of a sullen lake I stray
In shadows from the lonely wind-blown peaks,
Where autumn takes all green of life away,
And the winds are rattling the brown reed-streaks.

The leaves of the willow are yellow and cold,
And the waters are chill to the breast of the swan;
Now love has grown weary, love has grown old,
For the way has lead far from the dazzle of dawn.

Here at the sunset, at the amber end
Of a journey through sunlight to this lone height,
Earth, I am weary, Earth, be my friend,
Breathe to me gently, whisper good-night.

—Keith Thomas

YUCCA HILLS

There is no rest for me until I go
White-clad with death to climb the yucca hills.
There lie the happy paths that children know,
Where sunlight on the mesa earthward spills.
The wind wears silver slippers on those paths,
And races with the flowers in the sun;
The friendly trees fling out their argent laths,
And gowns of gossamer for earth are spun.
Then death shall make for me on yucca hills
A mound white-petaled as the stillnes there,
Where I can rest, and longing never fills
The solitude, nor flowers know a care.
On yucca hills the white bells softly chime.
Sleep on, oh grief, on yucca hills through time.

—Hazel Hamblin

PEOPLE TALKED ABOUT

THE National League of American Pen Women has been in convention at Washington D. C., with a large exhibition of art work at the Art League of Washington galleries. The show included water colors, oils, ceramics, pastels, sculpture and heraldry from artists all over the country, with a very few from California. Among these, the name of Jennie Vennestrom Cannon of Berkeley, very much and often of Carmel, is noted, and Peggy Palmer, who, despite her ties to Carmel, now registers from Chicago, is an "especially mentioned" exhibitor.

Peggy of "The Matoor Mind," well remembered for her blithsome humor and ribald sketches in the Pine Cone, had a number of pictures in the water color exhibit, but quite naturally they didn't come under any of the classifications, landscape, figure or portrait, that judges use to determine prize-winners. So the authorities, who were heads of national art leagues, art critics and professors of art in the universities of the east, had to put her under a separate classification, all by hersef, and give her "Henry VIII and His Wives" an honorable mention.

Peggy also had tea at the White House, whether alone with the President or not, I forgot to learn, and ran over to New York to look the town over. Now she is planning a visit to Carmel late this summer. Welcome home, Peggy, even if you have a Chicago telephone number.

URGING visitors to California to include a trip to the Monterey Peninsula in their itinerary, the May issue of Southern Pacific's dining car menu is featuring an article on Carmel Mission.

"The memory of Junipero Serra, who founded the Missions, is honored through the designation of 1934 in California as Junipero Serra Year," the article states, "and the mission towns particularly those in the Mission Trail region, will be the scene of various pageants and fiestas this year."

Thousands of the menus have been printed for use over the company's lines through the West and it is hoped that the publicity will be helpful in directing tourist travel to the Monterey Peninsula, said C. M. Vance, agent for the Company at Monterey.

FRANK SHERIDAN is back from another Hollywood siege, this time in Harold Lloyd's new picture "Cat's Paw," from the Clarence Buddington Kelland story in the Saturday Evening Post, with Sam Taylor directing.

"Lloyd is one of the most painstaking workers I have ever been with," said Sheridan. "In this picture, where a missionary's son comes to America from China and is tossed into politics as a joke by crooked bosses who want a puppet mayor, there are many Chinese characters, and to get reality and accuracy a technical expert was constantly on the set. This expert was a charming Chinaman who had graduated from Northwestern University, and who enjoyed every minute of fabricating the Orient on a movie set."

Frank said that he had a tough assignment in being locked in a cellar for a week, handcuffed, while overhead the benign Chinese friend of the duped mayor goes about netting the rest of the grafters. An outstanding feature of the Lloyd studio is the presence of many early comrades of the star who are on the permanent payroll even though their talents might not fit into present-day needs.

"There is confidence in the air down there," continued Frank, "and with such great pictures as DeMille's "Cleopatra," and "The Witching Hour," the screen adaptation of Augustus Thomas's drama, in the making or already released, the year's program will afford outstanding examples of the industry's attitude toward recovery from the depression."

Frank Sheridan then outlined an idea for summer Abalone Baseball, and said that between it and the Serra Pageant in August he felt that he would be able to keep out of mischief while among us.

ONE of the most important of Mexico's artists, Carlos Merida, was in Carmel recently to visit his friend Edward Weston, the photographer. They met first ten years ago when Weston was in Mexico. Merida, according to Weston, is more abstract than most Mexican painters. He is Quatemalan by birth but has lived in Mexico so long that he has identified himself with that country. Having just had an exhibition at the East-West Galleries in San Francisco, he now has a show at the Standahl Galleries in Los Angeles. The Westons took Merida to Point Lobos and he was greatly impressed by its rugged beauty.

ROBERT LOUIS STEVENSON, knowing the Monterey peninsula well, left many references to it. In "A Child's Garden of Verses," he speaks to little Louis Sanchez, in "To My Name Child." In the second stanza he says:

"Now that you have spelt your lesson, lay it down and go and play,
Seeking shells and seaweed on the sands of Monterey,
Watching all the mighty whalebones, lying buried by the breeze,
Tiny sandy-pipers, and the huge Pacific seas.
And remember in your playing, as the sea-fogs rolls to you,
Long ere you could read it, how I told you what to do;
And that while you thought of no one, nearly half the world away
Someone thought of Louis on the beach of Monterey!"

Of Carmel, he writes, " I heard the old Indians singing mass in the ruined Carmel Church. That was a new experience and one, I think, well worth hearing. There was the old man who led, and the women who so worthily followed. It was like a voice out of the past. They sang by tradtion, from the teaching of the early missionaries, long since turned to clay.

"And still in the roofless church you may hear the old music. Padre Casanove will, I am sure, be the first to pardon and understand me, when I say that the old Gregorian singing preached a sermon more eloquent than his own. . . . A fine old church, a fine old race, both brutally neglected; survival, a memory, and a ruin. The United States Mint can coin many millions of dollar pieces, but not make a single Indian; and when Carmel Church is in the dust, not all the wealth of all the states and territories can replace what has been lost."

THE KNAVE of the Oakland Tribune tells this one of Jackson Gregory, writer of westerns, and brother of Susan Gregory, poet, of Monterey. It happened many years ago, when Gregory and his wife were eking out an existence in a little cottage in the Berkeley Hills. He had one reliable market, a little magazine now defunct, which purchased one story a month from him, giving him enough to keep life going. Came a day when Gregory, ired at the editor, wrote an angry letter—and lost his market. With it went all income.

His water, gas and electricity were shut off. The bills at the grocery mounted high, and he had to find new sources of credit.

Mrs. Gregory sallied forth, pail in hand, during rainy months to fetch water from a nearby creek. Came Spring, and the creek dried up, andl she had to borrow water from the neighbors. Firewood was obtained by scouring the hills, and as for light—the Gregorys went to bed at nightfall.

Meanwhile Gregory was writing his first novel. When it was finished his poverty was so extreme that he had a hard time scraping together the few cents necessary to send it to a publisher.

Starvation was almost an actuality when, one fine morning, he received a telegram from a magazine editor accepting the novel, stating a $1000 check was on the way, and offering to buy his next novel at two cents a word. The Gregorys started forthwith on a pilgrimage. They went to a bank, borrowed all they could get on the strength of the telegram, and bought themselves a gargantuan meal. Then they toured all their creditors, paying their bills. They bought gifts for all their friends, staged a whopping party, and departed for Truckee for a vacation in style.

A week later, when purchasing return tickets, Gregory found himself a nickel shy and had to borrow it to get home.

CARMEL MAY HAVE ITS OWN AMERICAN LEGION

Carmel may have its own post of the American Legion. A surprisingly large number of veterans belonging to Monterey Peninsula Post No. 41 live in and about town, and a move is under way to apply for a separate charter to be known as The Carmel Post. Active in the idea are Don Hale, Jim Regan, Floyd Mangrum and William Deems.

IS THAT SO?

By Winsor Josselyn

"I'll bet you don't know who this is?" When that remark comes over the telephone the one answer ought to be, "You bet I don't!" and then ear-cracking laughter and prompt hanging-up.

And when a be-goggled person you haven't seen in fifteen years comes up with hand extended and shouts, "You don't remember me, do you, you old so-and-so?" the only proper thing is to grip the hand until bones crack, shake your head, choke back the tears and walk swiftly away.

They were talking of the couple that had been engaged for years, yet fought horribly every other day. "Know what he should do? said one in summary. "He should marry the girl just to get her out of his mind."

There was a girl from Texas who called cow "caow." She got over it out here, but when asked suddenly how it is pronounced, she says, "Well, lemme see. I used to pronounced it caow."

The little boy wanted a brother, and when his mother went to the hospital she promised him one. But she brought back a baby sister.

Some week later the little boy's father was lugged off to the hospital. And the lad exclaimed, "Now I get a brother. Nobody can put anything over on my dad!"

Speaking of the evils of drink, one Product of Prohibition said about it, "I never feel good afterward—or before, for that matter."

CARMEL BOYS DO WELL IN N. C. S. TRACK MEET

Ki Miyamoto, the Carmel lad who has shown such athletic prowess in Monterey High School this season, competed last week at Berkeley in the Northern California Coast Section Meet, and tied for fourth place in the high jump at 5 feet 9¼ inches, and took third in the broad jump with 21 feet, 3½ inches. Both events were run off at the same time, but Ki made a very creditable showing despite this handicap.

Yosh Miayamoto, his brother, took second in the exhibition football throw with a mark of 181 feet 5 inches.

IF your home is using "a strike a match and wait for water to get warm" kind of water heater, you will be wise in having one of the new Automatic Gas Water Heaters installed now.

The installation of an Automatic entails no fuss or muss. It can be safely vented to an existing flue and it is generally not necessary to change the piping.

A small down payment thereafter gives you immediate installation and use of an Automatic. And then you will have on-tap hot water service in kitchen, laundry and bath in an almost unlimited quantity and at a cost that is less per gallon than the water heater you are now using.

Every day you delay in having the service of Automatic Hot Water means time wasted and convenience sacrificed. Modernize your home by having an Automatic installed. Select the model your home needs today.

STATE P. T. A. REPORT IS GIVEN BY MRS. TAYLOR

Mrs. Daisy Taylor represented the Carmel Parent-Teachers Assn., at the 35th Annual Convention of the California Congress of Parents and Teachers, held in Sacramento, May 1, 2, 3, and 4th, and in a recent report to the local group she outlined the highlights of the meeting.

The main theme was "A time like this demands strong minds, great hearts, true faith and ready hands," and each day had a portion devoted to one segment of these thoughts. The entire convention impressed Mrs. Taylor with its zeal, earnestness, eagerness and recognition of the dynamic energy stored up to be used next year for the welfare of the children of California.

Classes were held from 8 until 10 mornings, and included Parent Education, Publicity, Parliamentary Law, Precedure and general P. T. A. Management. From 10 to 12 came general meetings of the entire conventions, addressed by unusual speakers in the Symposium of Education, and among these were Charles Adams, of the State Board of Education, who spoke on "Education of the Past;" Dr. John R. Sexton, Superintendent of Pasadena Schools, whose topic was "The Deepening Crisis in Education"; Miss Heffernan, of the New America."

Afternoon conferences were conducted by various chairman of state divisions of the P. T. A., and took in Health, Music, Art, Visual Education and The Exceptional Child, this dealing with Speech Defect, Crippled Children, Defective Hearing and other ailments which today are not termed handicaps, with actual examples of applied teaching in the Sacramento schools.

There were district dinners, poster shows, exhibits of record books, of mended clothing, toys and many more splendid examples of P, T. A. activity. Noteworthy entertainment included a violin choir from the grades of Pasadena schools, a pipe organ recital daily in the assembly auditorium, an A Capella Choir from the Sacramento Junior College, an orchestra from the High School, several men's choruses and a grand ensemble of 350 Singing Mothers from all parts of the state, in charge of Mrs. Lorbeer.

The outstanding entertainment feature was the musical extravaganza "The Moon Man," by Mrs. Louise Bartlett, a faculty member of the Sacramento Schools, using children to the number of 400 in th choruses, 200 on stage as flower dancers and 35 in the child's orchestra.

The very favorable treasurer's report of a $26,00 showed that the state P. T. A. will have a substantial fund for group welfare. Final action in the conference was that of resolving: "That we are in favor of federal aid for schools, and that this sentiment be telegraphed to President Franklin D. Roosevelt."

CHEVROLET STANDARD SIX IS ON DSIPLAY

Chevrolet presents "The world's lowest price six-cylinder car" with the introduction of its new improved 1934 Standard Six models, supplementing the Master Chevrolet models previously presented. The car is shown locally at the San Carlos Motor Co.

Two closed and two open models comprise the new improved Standard line. They are the sport roadster, phaeton, coupe, and two-door sedan.

"Roadability, and especially stability, have been enhanced through the adoption of a wider chassis springs front and rear, in conjunction with a longer front axle and frame and more widely spaced leaf increased tread of the front wheels. These chassis improvements have permitted the use of big, roomy bodies having maximum width and ample leg room. The Standard chassis frame is entirely new. It is designed to effect improved weight distribution and better spring mounting, and to provide for a new design of engine suspension.

"Braking has been revised to include double-articulated shoes and cable control, front and rear. Clutch refinements insure smoother operation, lighter pedal pressure, and increased durability

"The exterior has been generally redesigned to add to style and utility.

"The re-styled front-end ensemble includes new designs for the hood and radiator grille. The hood is unusually long, and has three horizontal louvres. Front fenders, radiator and head lamps are supported as a unit on a stabilized mounting of improved design, insulated from the frame by a single centrally located rubber cushion. Running boards blend smoothly into the fenders, and are finished with a long rubber mat, extending farther toward the rear.

"A most pleasing appearance is gained in the instrumental panel. It is wide at the center, the lower edge sweping upward toward the ends in a graceful curve. The instrument group is enclosed in an embossed ellipitical head, flanked by depressed panels. The steering wheel is 17 inches in diameter.

"The new Standard power plant has been refined to give superior low-speed flexibility and cold operation, without sacrifice of economy or highspeed performance ability. Dozens of other improvements will be shown you and explained by your local Chevrolet dealer. See them at the San Carlos Chevrolet Co.

Carmel Resident Is Beaten by Strikers

Captain H. M. Gleason, ex-navy officer who has been a Carmel resident for the past several years, was attacked and severely beaten by four strikers on the San Francisco docks last Sunday while pursuing his duties as an executive of the Waterfront's Employers' Union in the present labor crisis.

As he walked along the Embarcadero he noticed four men grouped about the entrance to his building, and from their remarks learned that they planned to cause trouble. Just beyond was a policeman, and Gleason told him what he had heard. A moment later the men attacked him and inflicted severe cuts and abrasions about his head and face before the officer could come to his rescue and arrest his assailants. Later Lester Conlon was charged with disturbing the peace, and the following three were also taken on similar charge, namely Roy Johnstone, William McKenna and Charles Wright.

Gleason's many Carmel friends have learned that his injuries were not of a serious nature, and that beyond a night in the hospital his case did not require further medical treatment.

Judge George Wood drove to San Luis Obispo last Sunday to witness the Northern versus Southern California chess tournament in the Hotel Anderson, a series of matches that resulted in each side winning twelve games and two games being draws.
